MAY REACH $14,000,000.
Guess at Town's Grand List As Boosted by New Committee.

The 1913 grand list of the town of Willimantic has been practically completed, and the assessors will probably make out their valuation of the town's taxable property today (Friday) when the exact figures will be made public. Last spring the town appointed Dr. George E. Wilcox, George Hatch and G. Godfrey Laplante to make a thorough revision of the taxable property of Willimantic, which have been at work on the task since May. Up to this year's property has been taxed at from one-third to one-half of its market value. The policy of the committee has been to assess the property this year at its present full market value, and it is expected that this year's grand list will show that Willimantic's grand list will aggregate not far from $14,000,000. The course the tax rate will be materially decreased when the town lays a tax at the special meeting to be called. Leading citizens irrespective of party are a unit in crediting the committee with having made a searching examination of all the facts and credit them with an effort to be impartial and fair in their conclusions.

The Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys at the new building are completed and were formally accepted by the officials Wednesday.

OBITUARY.

Edmund T. Whitmore.
Edmund T. Whitmore, formerly of Putnam, but who for the past four years has resided in Willimantic, died at his home, 72 Prospect street, Thursday morning, March 14, 1893. He was the son of Cyrus and Lucy (Tiffany) Whitmore, both natives of this state. His ancestors settled in Killingly in 1715. His father was one of the direct cotton manufacturers in Danielson. Inherent ambitions that could be satisfied only with large and honorable achievements led Mr. Whitmore at the age of twenty to leave for the west where his conspicuous energy, his hunting and trapping found zest, Mr. Whitmore being a lover of nature and developing skill in hunting and fishing that made him one of the leading sportsmen in the state. His annual visits to Bangor lakes and his adventures to him his happiest out-of-door recreative experiences. In 1849 Mr. Whitmore embarked in a sailing vessel for Smyrna and spent some time in Asia Minor. On his return to America he engaged in manufacturing shoes, continuing in that business for thirty years. In politics he was a staunch republican and for six years was the party's chairman of the town committee, and

At the Orpheum.
Audience pleased with The Angelus and Harrington Reynolds.

Funerals.
Harrington Reynolds, who made famous the character of Father O'Brien, was seen at the Orpheum theatre Thursday evening in that play. Harrington Reynolds is a connection with a religious theme woven through the play, but by no means of a nature that playgoers will find objectionable. The play was well received and a clean, uplifting theatrical offering has been added wherever seen.
